Analyst Ratings

ANR <GO> provides a list of the largest analysts on the street recommendations, price targets, total return rankings etc.

Other Advanced Functions

- WACC-Weighted Average Cost of Capital
- DDIS- Debt Distribution
- CAST- Capital Structure

RV- Relative Valuation

RV<GO> One of the most widely used functions for analyst to compare industry leaders. RV is a powerful function that can be easily customized to the user preferred metrics. The following screen is an RV screen that compares common valuation metric such as P/E Ratio, Debt/Equity, and ROE etc. The top line includes an average of all the companies listed. This allows the user to early compare specific stocks to the industry averages.

Supply Chain Analysis

SPLC <GO> is another widely used fundamental Bloomberg function that show a company's Suppliers and Customers. The Revenue and Cost feature under each supplier represents the Revenue and Cost incurred from the listed stock. The Revenue and Cost incurred under each customer implies the Revenue and Cost that the listed company (UA) receives from that customer. This is one of if not the best functions within Bloomberg to view what other companies that a company utilizes and their exposure to each one.

*Click on any company other than the main one viewed will easily change to that company's supply chain.

Peer Product Correlation

PPC<GO> enable the user to determine revenue-derived industry classifications.

The following is a list of Under Armour and competitors under Sports Apparel. You can easily see that 74% of Under Armour's total revenue comes from Sports Apparel while Nike has 28% of revenue from Sports Apparel.

Technical Analysis

Bloomberg has many different technical indicators that the user can input into charts. The main page to study different technical studies is

TECH<GO>

To view a quick chart of a particular stock use

GP<GO> - Graph Pricing

This will show a default chart with line charts, candlesticks, etc. while also displaying volume. This can be changed from a 1 minute chart to as high as a yearly chart.

A better way to view a chart is to create your own. This allows the user to input different technical studies that he/she prefers.

Use the following steps to create a personalized chart.

How to create a customized chart

Bloomberg enables the user to create as many custom-made charts. The following steps are an example of how to make your own custom chart

- 1.) Type in upper right hand corner where blue light is blinking. G<GO>
 - You will see a list of already defaulted charts, this is your chart library.
- 2.) Click on Create Graph

1<Go> to Create New Chart.

- 3.) For this example click on Standard Chart -> Next

For this example type in SPX and choose the SP500 index.

4.) Select Studies. For this example check off

- Simple Moving Average
- Relative Strength Index
- Moving Average Convergence/Divergence

5.) The Click Add Study and type in SMA(Moving Average) 2x

6.) Click Themes and choose the background color that you want.

- 7.) Next Title the Chart. The example here is titled Graph 53, therefore the function will be G53. Open Chart

The following chart should appear. Notice that there are 3 moving averages of 50 Days. The most common are 50/100/200 day moving averages. They are also the same color which is hard to distinguish. To change color, Right Click on the first EMA and change and select Edit Color and Style

Click on Green Box and select another color other than green. Follow this step again for the 3rd Simple Moving Average.

To Change the Time period of moving average

- Click on Security study.
- Find the 3 simple moving averages
- Click the pencil next to each and change the period to whatever you prefer. We will stick with 50/100/200 day for this example.
- You can also check the volume field to add if you prefer.

The new updated chart should look like this. Notice the three separate Simple Moving Averages. The other studies in Relative Strength Index, a measure of momentum and MACD- a measure of moving averages. Descriptions of these studies can all be see under the TECH<GO> function. Click Annotate to show trend line drawing, percentage retracement and other additional functions.

Click on Security/Study, the user can add a security to compare to the listed security. This can be anything- a competitor, commodity, etc. Checking the flag allows the user to show corporate events, news, earnings announcements etc. onto the chart. The below is a chart of Under Armour with Earnings Announcements checked off.

User can customize the date range and time period for every chart. From as small as 1 minute to as large as 1 year. The 5min, daily, weekly and monthly are the most widely used time periods.

Fixed Income Functions

The Bloomberg Fixed income functions include the following

- F2- Government Bonds/Treasuries
- F3- Corporate Bonds
- F4- Mortgage Bonds
- F6- Municipal Bonds

F3<GO> displays the menu for all major corporate bond functions

The main go to screen when looking at the big picture of bond markets is similar to the WEI function for Equities and GLCO for Commodities

WB<GO> World Bond Markets allows you to monitor and chart sovereign (government) bond yields, spreads and historical performance on one screen. WB enables the user to view bonds from all countries;. It is broken down by the Americas, Europe, and Asia/Pacific.
